

Net neutrality protects America's investment in the Internet (which was originally 100% publicly funded by taxpayers as ARPANET and MILNET). It would be short sighted and economically destructive to allow private companies to create an uneven playing field on which they are the referees. If these private companies wish to exercise their freedom to control their networks, then let them create their own parallel network that does not connect to the Internet and which does not use the publicly-developed and open Internet Protocol. THAT would be their right. THIS self-serving distortion they are calling "Internet freedom" is not at all their right. It is a usurpation of OUR rights and we don't want it. Please work to ensure that Net Neutrality rules continue to be enforced.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Jonathan W. Locke', with a stylized, cursive script.

Jonathan W. Locke